What is an Ultrasound?

Ultrasound is an easy and noninvasive way to see internal structures of the body. It sends high-frequency sound waves through the skin and produces images of major organs. In an obstetrical examination, the baby can be observed inside the mother's uterus.

Why Should I have an Ultrasound exam?

Ultrasound is used to evaluate the pockets of amniotic fluid around the baby so your doctor is able to safely remove the fluid to test your baby's lung maturity. Direct visualization of the needle keeps the baby safe during the procedure.

You will present to the Birthplace 1 hour prior to your exam time for a non-stress test and then they will bring you to the ultrasound suite for the procedure.
